2 Recent Additions to PSGI's PRISM® Customer Support Community and a PRISM User Group Meeting Alert

Walpole, MA - April 3, 2009 -- The Precision Solutions Group is pleased to announce that MEL Chemicals and a food manufacturer that requested anonymity have selected PSGI for our PRISM Customer Support Services. Recognizing PSGI for our world class services, these new partnerships started delivering value even before the paperwork was signed and both customers look to improving their PRISM implementations with PSGI's business process optimization services.

When MEL Chemicals selected PSGI,  they were advised to consider themselves "on support" and call with any issues even though the contract was not formally signed. Less than 2 hours later they called with a PRISM-IFM integration issue that was preventing them from performing month-end close. "PSGI provided a work around that enabled us to close the month and get on with business. Their demonstrated responsiveness and expertise as well as flexibility in assisting us prior to formalizing contracts proves that we have made the correct decision," said John Qin, MEL's IT Manager. MEL Chemicals already has projects lined up for the Flex Consulting Days that come with PSGI's support offering.

Recognizing the inherent value in our PRISM Customer Support model, our newest food manufacturing customer selected PSGI to provide experienced, proactive support of their modified PRISM implementation. "We decided to go with the vendor that provides the most for our support investment while providing the expertise to ensure any issues we have are addressed quickly and correctly," explained their VP of Finance. Like MEL Chemicals, this company already benefited from the relationship when they needed to update PRISM, IFM, and Avantis for a new state sales tax and when they needed advice regarding IBM discontinuing an older O/S release. Also like MEL Chemicals, they have ambitious plans for use of the Flex Consulting Days that will be delivered with their support contract.

PRISM User Group Meeting Postponed until Spring, 2010

Based on recent surveys of the PRISM User Group, the next PRISM User Group Meeting is now planned for Spring, 2010. Many people expressed doubt that in the current economic climate they would be able to travel. Those we spoke with were disappointed but look forward to getting together next year when the economy is booming!
